The ZMCB – A Brief History

Zanesville flourished with performing arts activities in the late 1800s, and among the groups back then was the John Bauer Band. It was organized before 1880 and averaged 15 to 20 members. When John Bauer died in 1912, his band was taken over by the American Rolling Mills Company, and became known as the Armco Band.

The 7th Regiment Band was formed in 1900, and was conducted by Bruce Tomilson. Four years later, band members began federal service for the advent of war.

Two businessmen – John Hoge and Eaton Drone – died in 1917, leaving behind $55,000 for a trust fund to be used and shared by the 7th Regiment and Armco bands. At the time, the Hoge-Drone concerts were free to the public, given every Friday night in McIntire Park and Sunday afternoons in Putnam Park.

By 1923, the two bands had merged, taking the present-day name of Zanesville Memorial Concert Band.

Hoge-Drone funds still represent a portion of the band's annual expenses, with the balance covered by private and corporate contributions. The band's current home is Zane's Landing Park along the eastern banks of the Muskingum River in downtown Zanesville. Concerts are performed every other Sunday evening during the summer months.

Concerts remain free to the public.
